Why this topic?

- ## Project objectives

- Build an RDF dataset from music-related sources
- Store and query the data using GraphDB and SPARQL
- Develop a Django web application for exploration and management

About Dataset

 Billboard Historical Charts (Auto-Updated Weekly)

A curated, long-horizon collection of major Billboard music charts — from their beginnings (as far back as publicly accessible) up to the present. Data is refreshed every Wednesday at 02:00 (server time) so you always have up-to-date rankings for analysis, trending, and music data science projects.

 Included Chart Files

Each file is a time series of weekly chart positions:

File	Chart	Type
billboard200.csv	Billboard 200	Albums

Spotify Tracks Dataset | Audio Features

114K Spotify tracks with audio features for EDA & Machine Learning

Data Card Code \(2\) Discussion \(0\) Suggestions \(0\)

About Dataset

 Spotify Tracks Dataset — 114K Songs Across 114 Genres

A comprehensive collection of Spotify tracks enriched with audio features, ideal for music analysis, genre classification, and building recommendation systems.

 About This Dataset

This dataset contains 114,000 Spotify tracks spanning 114 unique music genres, collected via the Spotify Web API. Each track comes with a rich set of audio features computed by Spotify's internal audio analysis engine — making it perfect for anyone interested in the science of music.

Whether you're a beginner practicing EDA or an advanced practitioner building ML models, this dataset offers meaningful signals and real-world complexity.
